

Skidoo: Wilderness Restoration

Excerpts from A.J.'s field noodle

Date: July 11, 2002

Mood: Well rested, a little rambunctious.

Objective: Camouflage vehicle markings and restore the wilderness that at some point in time was once there.

Description of Work: We inserted restoration signs, and harvested vertical mulch. We also relocated rock to the old road.

Feelings: The project was enjoyable and a sense of accomplishment overcame me upon completion.

Interesting stuff: There is a soil which goes by the name of Cyanobacterial soil, which is in a way, a living soil, for you see that there are micro-organisms, and bacteria living in it, hence the name "Cyanobacterial."
